The 2018 ATAR results are being released earlier than usual with Year 12 students being able to access their WACE results (including their ATAR score) and their Universities Admission Advice Letters online via the TISC website on Monday 17 December. Students will have less than 48 hours to make changes to their preferences if required with this option closing at 11.00pm on Tuesday 18 December. The first round of offers will be available online on Friday 21 December.

As a result each University will have its Prospective Students or Student Services teams fully manned and ready to help students with any enquiries leading up to and after Christmas.

As an example, Curtin University just launched a Year 12 self-help website to support students through this period.

They are encouraging all Year 12s to visit this site before and after their results are released if they are feeling uncertain about their results or have any questions. The site is broken down into 2 categories for students to select from – ‘My results are on track’ or ‘My results are not on track’. If a student selects ‘My results are not on track’ for example, they can use the Pathway Options wizard to identify their situation and find a solution. A situation could be for example;

- I didn’t get the ATAR score I need
- I didn’t meet the pre-requisite for the course I want
- I didn’t meet English
- I didn’t achieve WACE

There are many other scenarios that can be viewed via the Pathway Options wizard on this site.
